

Curriculum Vitae

Dr Priscilla Pang

Lecturer

UC

Tel : +65 6248 5289

Education Qualifications

| | |
|------|---|
| 2015 | PhD, English Language Teaching and Applied Linguistics, University of Warwick, UK |
| 2004 | MA, English Studies, National University of Singapore |
| 2001 | BA (Hons), English Language, National University of Singapore |

Academic and Professional Experience

| | |
|------|--|
| 2010 | Lecturer, Institute of Technical Education, Singapore |
| 2007 | Lecturer, Singapore Polytechnic |
| 2005 | Assistant Senior Editor, Marshall Cavendish International (Asia) Pte Ltd |

Memberships and Professional Activities

| | |
|------|--|
| 2015 | Member, The Singapore Association for Applied Linguistics (SAAL) |
| 2014 | Member, The British Association for Applied Linguistics (BAAL) |
| 2014 | Peer reviewer (paper presentations), the 47th Annual Meeting of the British Association for Applied Linguistics |
| 2012 | 15th Warwick International Postgraduate Conference in Applied Linguistics, Centre for Applied Linguistics, University of Warwick, UK |

Research Interests

- Professional socialization
- Workplace discourse
- Linguistic ethnography
- Qualitative research methods

Selected Papers

Pang, P. (2015). Learning to Work during Work Placement: Negotiating Access to Work and Participation through 'Origination' and Establishing a 'Legitimate Presence', Journal of Vocational Education and Training, 67(4): 543-557.

Researching Work and Learning through Linguistic Ethnography, 9th International Conference on Researching Work & Learning, Singapore (2015)

Where Action Matters: Trainee Learning in Kitchens, 47th Annual Meeting of the British Association for Applied Linguistics, Coventry, UK (2014)

Learning in Professional Kitchens: A Linguistic-Ethnographic Approach, Explorations in Ethnography, Language and Communication 5, Manchester, UK (2014)

Having a Feel for the Game at Work Placement: A Linguistic-Ethnographic Analysis of the Professional Socialisation of Trainee Cooks, English Language Postgraduate Conference, Birmingham, UK (2014)

Updated on 26 September 2017